From Tables to Knowledge Graphs

Tables as Data

- Tables are a common way of representing structured data, either relational databases, spreadsheets, or documents

- Work on mapping data from tables to RDF knowledge graphs includes W3C standards, practical implementations and ongoing research

- We'll look at examples of all three